FREW & CAMPBELL, PROPRIETORS.
OFFICE, 25 AND 27 FOURTEENTH ST.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 22, 1878.

FOR CONGRESS.

First District West Virginia,
JOHN H. HUBBARD,
OF Ohio County.

Congressional Executive Committee,
W. J. W. COWDEN, Chairman, Wheeling,
J. D. EDWARDS, Mountaineer,
L. D. HAYMOND, Charleston,
G. D. BERRY, Weston,
S. F. SHAW, Parkersburg.

The South Carolina Democratic State Committee have issued an address, in which they say: "Malecontents, laggards, disorganizers, shall not pull down the Democratic party, although they may multiply its difficulties and make the struggle harder. When the battle is won, as it shall be, the Democratic party, for its own sake, will pass sentence upon any man, not being with us, against us, and make them, for all time, political outcasts, despised by Democrats of their own race and country. This kind of sentiment the Charleston News approves of, and adds that the 'malecontents, laggards and disorganizers' aforementioned must also be regarded as public enemies. This may be justifiable talk for the old carpet-bag region of South Carolina, but we think that there is room for a decided difference of opinion on the subject.

The strict quarantine of many southern towns seems in some cases almost as much because of selfishness as dread of yellow fever, and New Orleans not unnaturally complains. Mobile, for instance, cut off New Orleans freights by rail, though allowing them by water, in order to appropriate the cotton business in Alabama to itself, and Galveston is charged with fencing in New Orleans, to play into the hands of St. Louis. In the smaller towns, also, the local merchants have favored quarantine, in order they might charge more for the stock on hand, but in some instances their penny-wise policy has almost brought the community to starvation prices and supplies. New Orleans treasures up these slight, and in one instance the payment of a draft from Vicksburg was refused, on the ground that, having severed business communication, it has no right to draw money from New Orleans with which to trade at St. Louis.

The Bankrupt Law.
With the close of this month, now almost gone, the bankrupt law will cease to exist. Next week, instead of having one uniform law for the government of cases of insolvency, we shall have thirty-eight, each State in the Union having a separate law of its own. The repeal of the superior statute, without further legislation, operates to bring into force again the unreppealed bankrupt laws of the several States. The national law, which ceases to operate after September 1, should have been amended and shorn of its repulsive features, and allowed to stand. But the repeal was the continuation of the law as it is. It was one of the greatest standing blocks in the way of business, and had very nearly deprived all forms of reality of any adequate value as collateral for the purpose of borrowing money. For eighteen years anterior to the passage of the present law there was no general bankrupt law, and many of the State Legislatures, anticipating the action of Congress, have revised the State laws and put them in working order. The New York World sensibly observes that the power given to Congress to enact a uniform law grew out of the confused insolvent laws of the colonies, and that bankrupt procedures might seriously be allowed to differ according as States see fit to enact concerning them if in their operation the National Legislature would ensure uniformity, which can be accomplished at the next session by a simple section enacting that an insolvent debtor charged to a debtor in any one State after due opportunity to his creditor to appeal, and be heard shall operate in every other State.

This might perhaps prove too simple to certain attorneys and some politicians; for the expiring bankrupt system was killed by its own professed friends. As it originally stood the law was not oppressive to the creditor nor too easy for the debtor; but at every session of Congress some interested and wily party would obtain divers enactments for a special purpose or to accomplish some private pecuniary advantage. To use a figure familiar to the lobby, a good grindstone has been finally worn out by a multiplicity of axes.

The proceedings in bankruptcy in the Federal Courts, after September 1, will be only for the purpose of winding up the business which is now plying in an uninterrupted stream.

The Cadet Examination.
CLARKSBURG, August 27.
The examination of the applicants for the West Point Cadetship was concluded yesterday, and the Board of Examiners held all night examining the papers containing each applicant's answer to the questions. S. E. Adair, of Parkersburg, was the successful applicant. W. H. Seaton, of Wheeling, stood fourth on the list and A. P. Wheat fifth. Everything satisfactory. All the boys stood well a thorough examination and they were a bright looking lot of young men. Wheat passed the best examination of any in Mathematics.

News for the Family Man.
A father who had passed innumerable sleepless nights has immortalized himself by discovering a method of keeping babies quiet. The process is described as follows: As soon as a "pet" awakes, set it up, prop it by a pillow, if it cannot sit alone, and smear its fingers with treacle; then put it in a dozen feathers into its hand, and if it still pick the feathers from one hand to the other until it drops asleep. As soon as it wakes again, repeat the operation; and in place of the fret and cry of former nights, there will be silence and quiet repose.

COPPERAS AS A DISINFECTANT.—The Scientific News, of New York, puts together far above chloride of lime as a disinfectant. It says "a couple of handfuls of copperas thrown into a bucket of water will soon dissolve and it can be used freely and is a valuable disinfectant. The best plan is to fill a half barrel or keg with water and dissolve therein a moderate sized basket full of copperas. In this way it dissolves more rapidly than when thrown to the bottom of the wooden vessel and thus a supply is always at hand ready for use."
